The Poona Press
Owners Association Ltd.

About PPOA

It was the tumultuous period just after the First World War when scarcity of materials and shortages of skilled manpower were the order of the day. The struggle to keep businesses afloat brought together a visionary few from the print fraternity in Pune with an objective of forming an association to jointly resolve their common issues. This led to the formation of The Poona Press Owners Association (referred to today as PPOA) on 19th May 1919.

Over a century later, we, the members of this association, can proudly claim that this legacy we inherited can be said to be the oldest association of printers in India.

Having provided a platform to the printers of Pune, for addressing their issues, networking within the community and updating knowledge on changing trends and technology in the world of print, PPOA now looks forward to the next hundred years.

ADOPTECH (a 'Trademarked' brand of PPOA) is one such Prime Initiative of PPOA which conducts educative programs and has found approval from those within the printing community of Pune as also from those across the country.

We are proud to host you all at ADOPTECHTM
